

How free are free bets in esports? Well, the answer is probably that some are more free than others. There's no such thing as a free lunch, they say. Maybe you could say something similar about free bets. But then again, if you play by the rules of the individual bookmakers, you certainly can get generously rewarded.

Is that a free bet? Yes, if that's how you define it. But you will not be able to log into a betting site that you have never participated in before, and collect a sizeable free bet just like that. That's not how it usually works.

The most common way to collect a free bet is by making a deposit of a stated amount, then the bookmaker in question will usually match the deposit amount. If you choose to deposit less than they state, you probably won't get your free bet.

"Online Bookies are falling over themselves with Free Bet Offers for new sign-ups. Free Bets range between £10 and £100 so there's a definitely a Free Bet to suit most wallets."

You'll notice they say, "a Free Bet to suit most wallets." That pretty much sums it up, but if you're making a deposit anyway, then why not double your money. So I guess the free bet you receive is indeed better than a poke in the eye! And of course, you might even win while using your free bet...

"...there's actually a way to ensure that your Free Bet makes you money. Basically it's a way to Beat The Bookies and it's called Matched Betting. Thanks to the emergence of Online Betting Exchanges, CSGO Matched Betting can be done fairly quickly and easily over the Internet."
